Introduction to Water and Wastewater Systems Online

Course Description

This course covers the very basics of the water and wastewater industry and has been specifically developed to provide new operators, trainees and any public works staff who are interested in learning about the water/wastewater industry with a basic knowledge of the water/wastewater field. It's a self-paced online course, and should take between 1-6 months to complete depending on work schedules, but can also be completed in as little as 1 week if schedule permits. There will be a final exam (proctored by the CRTP) that would require a 70% passing mark in order to receive the course certificate and the associated CEU's (submitted to AEP and pending approval). NOTE: This is NOT a certification preparation course but rather an "introduction" into water and wastewater field with a high focus on workplace safety!

WHO SHOULD REGISTER?

- New water/ wastewater systems operators & trainees/summer students
- Public works supervisors/mangers interested in learning more about water/wastewater
- Experienced operators that may need the course CEU's for certification renewal
- Any First Nation member who would like to know more about the water and water industry would also be welcome to register into this course without having to write the final exam

Course Cost: FREE to all Alberta First Nation public works employees and band members!

For more information please contact:

Gerry Gusdal

Email: ggusdal@tsag.net

Phone: 403 850 8602

Complete and submit registrations to:

Email: crtptraining@tsag.net

Fax: 780 483 8632

The First Nations Technical Services Group Inc. (TSAG) provides technical services and training for Alberta First Nations in the Treaty 6, Treaty 7, and Treaty 8 areas.

Introduction to Water and Wastewater Systems - Online

Registration Deadline: N/A

Registration Form

First Name: _____ Last Name: _____

Job Title: _____

First Nation: _____

Mobile Phone: _____ Work Phone: _____

Email: _____

Send completed registration forms to:

Email: crtptraining@tsag.net

Fax: 780 483 8632